The future of scholarly publishing in South Africa

Prof Caroline Ncube
UCT
CSPiSA Member
Editor, SA Intellectual Property Law Journal
Can and should research be 'fun'?

intrinsically interwoven
never the twain shall meet

- suitable?
- perceptions?
- our attitude to work, as researchers, editors and readers?
- curiosity, excitement, eagerness to learn and contribute to solving challenges
Editors, Researchers, Readers

Feasible
Useful
Nuanced

Rewarding
Enjoyable

*SAJS ASSOCIATE EDITORS
MENTEES' COMMENTS
“Enjoyable and rewarding] Productivity is never an accident. It is always the result of a commitment to excellence, intelligent planning and focused effort.”

- Paul J. Meyer
Go to www.menti.com and use the code 7138 2331

Can, and should, research be fun?

No, never the twain shall meet.

They are intrinsically interwoven.

Depends
Which parts of your work as editor, do you find most rewarding or enjoyable?
Can, and should, research be fun?

- 78% Yes, they are intrinsically interwoven.
- 19% Depends
- 3% No, never the twain shall meet.
Which parts of your work as editor, do you find most rewarding or enjoyable?
Further engagement

@caro_ncube
@IPChairUCT
Caroline.ncube@uct.ac.za

www.ipchair.uct.ac.za